

Rosa and Resting Tablet

Maple Kids

www.maple-kids.ca

Rosa loved her tablet.
It showed bright songs,
silly animals, and tiny dancing stars.

One day, the tablet
made a sleepy beep.
“I need a little nap,”
it seemed to say.

Rosa pouted.
She wanted one more game.
Then she looked at her blocks and crayons on the floor.

“I can play with you later,”
Rosa said softly.
She tucked the tablet
in a safe spot.

First, Rosa built a tall tower.
Then she drew a cat with a very curly tail.

Outside, Rosa skipped and chased bubbles with a grown-up.
The wind felt like a friendly game.

At bedtime, Rosa read a book with her family. Her eyes felt cozy and tired in a good way.

Rosa smiled. Screens were fun,
and so were blocks, bubbles,
books, and hugs.
She liked having time
for all of them.

